Fiscal Year 2013 Income Limits

Definition of Income: On the date of Hire:

Household income shall include that received by all family members over 18 years of age residing in the apartment / dwelling unit. This means all gross wages, salaries, commissions, pensions, rental income, interest in savings, unemployment insurance, alimony or support income, TANIF, general assistance aid, Veterans Disability, or any other income obtained during the reporting period.

Individuals residing in the apartment or home as borders, renters, etc. and who pay the head of household, or spouse, or live in partner compensation for the privilege of residing in the same dwelling unit – and who earns income – shall not be counted as total household income.

If you are unemployed before taking your current job, then only income you are receiving during the time of unemployment shall be calculated to determine your portion of the total household income.

Please indicate on the attached sheet whether your total household income is less than or more than the income level specified above, based upon the number of people in your family and return it to your employer.

The requested information will be kept strictly confidential.
