DOVER CITY COUNCIL

ON THE AGENDA

Coming up at the next City Council meeting

Public water supply upgrades topic of May 1 workshop

The City Council will hold a workshop on the city's public drinking water supply upgrades on Wednesday, May 1.

In one presentation, city staff will discuss how Dover is complying with federal lead service line regulations, and how the city is working to identify and address any possible lead-based service lines on private property that may be connected to the city's water system.

Another presentation will be from consultant Underwood Engineers staff, who provide Dover technical expertise with its water system infrastructure. Their presentation will provide an overview of the Pudding Hill Water Treatment Plant that will be online later this season, including how it works and complies with the new federal PFAS regulations. They will also discuss the new Smith Well Road water tank that is nearing completion, and the planned Garrison Hill water tank rehabilitation, slated to begin as early as this fall.

A third presentation is from Emery & Garrett Groundwater Investigations, a division of GZA. This city consultant provides technical expertise in monitoring and managing the city's drinking water aquifers. It also helps the city investigate new groundwater sources.

The workshop begins at 7 p.m. in City Hall's Council Chamber. It will be televised on Channel 22 and online at <https://dovernh.viebit.com>, where it will also be available for on-demand viewing.

Recreation Director Gary Bannon retires after 34 years with Dover

The City of Dover bids farewell to its long-time faithful servant, Recreation Director Gary Bannon, retiring at month's end after 34 years of service to the city and its citizens.

Colleagues, friends, and family joined Bannon on Thursday afternoon for a retirement sendoff at the McConnell Center, sharing laughs and stories, and reminiscing of Bannon's storied career with Dover.

Mayor Robert Carrier presented him with a key to the city and read a proclamation, recognizing Bannon "for his outstanding dedication, leadership, and contributions to the Dover Recreation Department and the community at large.

"We extend our deepest gratitude for his unwavering commitment to enriching the lives of Dover residents through recreational opportunities and congratulate him on his remarkable career achievements," Carrier said.

Bannon was hired in 1989 as Assistant Parks and Recreation Director. He arrived as a stranger, finding the job posting through the New Hampshire Union Leader classified section from where the Rhode Island native lived in Jaffrey, working for a Christian camp as a facilities manager.

"I didn't know anyone here," Bannon said recently. "But it didn't take long to be connected with people in the city."

Bannon found a city already steeped in recreation opportunities, with two pools, an ice area, a gym, and many public parks, and knew it was a place he could settle into with his young family. During his tenure, he oversaw the addition of a second ice rink, the creation of two Dover Skate Parks, Dover Disc Golf Course, and Dover Adventure Playground, among many others. Bannon also oversaw the creation of the Recreation Facilities at McConnell Center in 2004-2005, repurposing Dover's former middle school and high school into a center of recreation and a place for local non-profits agencies to help serve the community.

"We're all on the same team," Bannon said of the McConnell Center collaboration. "We all have the same mission: serving the public."

Bannon was promoted to Recreation Superintendent of the newly formed Recreation Division of Community Services Department in 1994 and became Recreation Director in 2005 when the Recreation Department was reestablished.

"The 34 years went by like a blink," Bannon said. "It wasn't a job – it was a life."

Bannon's overarching vision is that "recreation is for everybody," carrying on a longstanding city tradition. "The vision of what Dover Recreation is, started decades, decades before I first started," he noted during his recent interview on the Dover Download podcast.

While he helped shepherd numerous projects into reality,

Bannon credits the collaboration of the city's citizens for these project's success, such as the Dover Adventure Playground. With the help of the Cox family, David Bamford, and the New Hampshire Children's Museum, a project that would have been built in phases over many years due to budgetary constraints was completed in a season.

These projects are hallmarks of the city, Bannon said.

"Have a good idea, be patient, have faith that it can happen, and if it's a good idea, you'll find the people and the ways to make it happen," he said. "I've been fortunate in Recreation to see that over and over again."

Bannon's motto is simple. "Make the world a better place because you are there."

Dover Rotary to dedicate pavilion at new skatepark on Saturday

Dover Rotary invites the public to the ribbon cutting and dedication of the new pavilion and picnic area at the Dover Skatepark on Saturday, April 27, at 11 a.m. The event will be held at the park, located at 150 Portland Ave. in Dover.

The pavilion is a new addition to the 10,700-square-foot skatepark that opened last fall. It provides space for visitors to learn, relax, and enjoy the community's newest recreational facility.

Construction of the skatepark began in June 2023. The park officially opened in October 2023.

The skate park features various ramps, rails, and obstacles designed for skateboarding, inline skating, and other action sports. The new park provides a safe and dedicated space for skaters and outdoor enthusiasts of all ages and skill levels.

Dover CrimeLine seeks new board members

Dover CrimeLine is seeking volunteers to join its board of directors.

The nonprofit organization works with the Dover Police Department to enhance public safety and reduce crime in the city. It aims to assist law enforcement agencies by sharing information on crimes within the community and incentivizing people to provide important information by offering financial rewards while maintaining privacy and anonymity for tipsters.

Board members are expected to attend approximately 10 meetings per year and participate in fundraising events during Apple Harvest Day and National Night Out. They work in conjunction with Dover Police Charities on various fundraising projects annually.

The screening process for prospective board members includes completing a volunteer application, undergoing a criminal record check, interviewing with current board members, and receiving a vote of approval from the current board.

Those interested in being considered for the Dover CrimeLine Board should contact Board President Scott Wellington at scotwell63@aol.com or police liaison Capt. David Terlemezian at d.terlemezian@dover.nh.gov.

The following events are from various historical records, sources, and texts about the history of Dover.

For more on the history of Dover, visit the Dover Public Library, Locust Street, and the Woodman Museum on Central Avenue. The Public Library also maintains an online collection of historical information located here.

April 30, 1731 — By a vote of the town, one and a half acres of land at Pine Hill, near the meeting house, were set apart as a public burying ground.

April 30, 1814 — Proposals were issued for building the Dover Cotton Factory and dam at the falls near Jonathon Kimball's — the building to be 100 feet in length, 32 feet wide, and three stories high.

April 28, 1825 — The Methodist meeting house, the first one of this denomination built in Dover, was dedicated this day.

May 2, 1854 — The "Dover Hotel," believed to be one of the oldest public houses in the State, was closed and converted into tenements.

April 26, 1999 — A Dover High School teacher, Sherrie Picardy, and student council president, Victoria Ervin, return to Dover after traveling to Littleton, Colo., after the Columbine High School massacre. They delivered condolence letters, posters, and maple syrup from Dover students to the memorials at Columbine. Picardy wanted to comfort the community and honor teacher Dave Sanders, who died protecting students. They attended a funeral service for victim Daniel Rohrbough. At Columbine, they placed Dover's tributes among thousands of others, feeling it was more meaningful to be part of the collective gesture of support for the grieving town.
