Council to hold budget workshop Wednesday

Executive, Finance, Recreation, Welfare, DoverNet, and Library department budgets on tap

The City Council will hold its first of five budget workshops this Wednesday, March 1.

At the March 1 workshop, the City Council will receive budget presentations from the Executive, Finance, Recreation, Library, and Information Technology (DoverNet) departments.

Budget workshops are also scheduled for March 8, 15, 29, and April 5. The Council will hold a public hearing on the school portion of the budget on March 15 and the rest on March 22. All meetings/workshops occur on Wednesdays; see a detailed schedule below.

The City Manager presented his proposed fiscal year 2024 budget to the City Council on Feb. 15. It totals $183,821,915 across all funds, an increase over the previous year of $4,125,089, or 2.3%. The General Fund portion of the budget, funded primarily through property taxes, is $146,705,670, an increase over the previous year of $6,930,771, or 5%. As proposed, the budget exceeds the tax cap by $483,092 and would require a two-thirds majority vote of the City Council to adopt.

The complete line-item proposed budget is available on the FY2024 Budget Revealed page. Videos of the budget workshops and the documents presented will also be posted to the webpage, including the School Board's previous budget meetings and workshops.

Waterfront committee elects new chair, reviews new bid process

The Cochecheo Waterfront Development Advisory Committee elected Norm Fracassa as its new chair, replacing Dana Lynch, who stepped down from committee chair after leading it, in his latest stint, since 2018. Lynch, who has been part of the effort to develop the city-owned waterfront for decades (see This Week in Dover History below), will remain on the committee.

Fracassa has been CWDAC's vice chair for the past few years. Following Fracassa's appointment to chair, CWDAC elected Sean Fitzgerald as vice chair.

CWDAC then received a report from its Parks Subcommittee on its Feb. 15 meeting with CJ

Architects, the firm the City Council awarded the bid to in January for architectural design services for the waterfront park building.

CDWAC also received an update on the bid process for public improvements for the waterfront development, due on March 9. This is the second bidding for the public improvements. The first bid released in September received no proposals from the four pre-qualified firms submitted due in large part to the deadline for shoreline work set by the Army Corps of Engineers permit. The city has since received a new permit from the Army Corps of Engineers that extends the deadline. City staff also revised the bid in response to questions raised by the potential bidders.

CDWAC's Feb. 21 meeting can be viewed in its entirety at <https://dovernh.viebit.com/player.php?hash=ozOd0tX3DARh>.

Tips for curbside trash and recycling pickup

Community Services Director John Storer reminds the public of the following trash and recycling regulations:

- All trash for pickup is required to be wholly contained in Dover trash bags, secured and tied;
- 15-gallon bags have a 20-pound limit;
- 30-gallon bags have a 35-pound limit;
- All recycling is to be contained in Dover recycling bins;
- Cardboard must be broken down and flat;
- Recycling plastics are limited to #1, #2 and #5;
- Bulky waste, such as furniture, toilets, mattresses, box springs, couches, chairs, and other large, non-metal items, must have a Dover bulky tag to be picked up. Bulky tags are available where Dover trash bags are sold;

- Owners are responsible for cleaning up any remaining debris from trash pickup.

The city's complete trash and recycling regulations are contained in "Chapter 145 Waste Management" of the city ordinances, available at <https://ecode360.com/33404878>.

For more information, contact Community Services at 603-516-6450.

The following events are from a variety of historical records, sources, and texts about the history of Dover.

For more on the history of Dover, visit the Dover Public Library, Locust Street, and the Woodman Museum on Central Avenue. The Public Library also maintains an online collection of historical information located here.

March 2, 1860 — Abraham Lincoln of Illinois addresses the Republicans of Dover on the politics of the day.

March 1, 1896 — "Dover's Black Day" began with a record-breaking rainfall on March 1, 1896, which tore through the downtown. The Central Avenue bridge was swept away by torrents of rushing water and ice floes; several stores and offices in the Bracewell Building were destroyed. Merchants occupying the southern portion of the building included Fred Foss' stationery store, Roberts Bros. Boots and Shoes, the Misses Flynn millinery shop, Drew and Boomer photography studio, and the law offices of William Roberts. Combined, their losses totaled over $23,000. Building owner, Col. John Bracewell, estimated additional structural damage of at least $20,000 more. The bridge began to sink at 4 p.m. on March 2 when immense ice cakes from upstream continually hit its piers. At 4:55 p.m., two spans, 30 feet wide, went down. Not five minutes before, the bridge was filled with spectators gawking at the destruction. They were removed by the City Marshall just in time. The Bracewell Block caved in at precisely 8 p.m. with "crashing glass, snapping of timber, and a cloud of plaster and lime." Debris flowed swiftly over the dam. Electric poles then fell into the streets with live wires sparking. Lots of merchandise and equipment from these Dover businesses were found in Portsmouth the next day: "everything from lead pencils to fine bonnets to brogans." (Adapted from "Faces of Dover")

March 1, 1912 — The 300 employees of the Sawyer Woolen Mill, then owned by the American Woolen Co, were informed on this day that they would all receive an increase in pay of 5%, effective the following week.

Feb. 28, 1996 — Dana Lynch, then chair of the Greater Dover Chamber of Commerce Waterfront Committee, addressed the City Council on this day about ongoing plans to promote the development of city-owned waterfront property off River Street. In 1996, work was underway to prepare the waterfront process for future development, including removing the city's former Public Works facility on the site. Then chair of the Dover Chamber, Jack Story, said preparing the waterfront parcel for development was similar to other projects that provided an economic benefit to the city, including the extension of Sixth Street, which led to the announcement of Liberty Mutual's plans to construct a $25 million campus off Sixth Street; and the preparations in the early 1990s to develop the city-owned Enterprise Park. Lynch now serves on the Cochecho Waterfront Development Advisory Committee, which operates under the Dover Housing Authority. The committee is overseeing the development of the waterfront parcel by Cathartes. The current plan, which was approved by the Planning Board last year, includes three mixed-use buildings, two multi-family buildings, and three clusters of townhouses. The buildings include 418 residential units and approximately 26,000 square feet of commercial space. The residential units include a mixture of rental and for-sale condominium units. Utility work and site preparation is expected to begin soon.

Feb. 25, 2010 — The Tewksbury, Massachusetts School Committee on this day approved a three-year contract with John O'Connor as that district's new superintendent of schools. At the time, O'Connor was serving as Dover's superintendent, a position he had held for six years. Overall, he had spent 20 years in the Dover School District. O'Connor had first been a teacher and assistant principal in Lawrence, Mass., until 1980, when he left to work in Saudi Arabia for 10 years at schools operated by Saudi Aramco. He joined Dover in 1990, and for the next 14 years served as a principal at the elementary, middle, and high school levels, before accepting the superintendent position in 2004.

Library to host Perspectives NH Humanities Book Discussion for Women's History Month

Celebrate Women's History Month by discovering New York City's elite women who turned a feminist cause into a fashionable revolution.

On Monday, March 6 at 6:30 p.m., Dover Public Library will host a Perspectives Book Discussion of Johanna Neuman's book "Gilded Suffragists: The New York Socialites Who Fought for Women's Right to Vote." Participants may attend in person or sign up at the library's website to attend virtually. Copies of the book will be available at the library to keep or share with others while supplies last. We ask that people taking a book make every effort to attend the discussion.

This event was made possible through a grant awarded by the New Hampshire Humanities. It will be facilitated by humanities scholar Liz Tentarelli.

The goal of the New Hampshire Humanities Perspective book discussion grant is for participants to engage with diverse perspectives in the humanities through literature to build understanding and empathy, and to support a culture of reading in New Hampshire. More information about New Hampshire Humanities may be found at their website nhhumanities.org.

Liz Tentarelli has a career spanning over 30 years teaching high school and college students, including 19 years at Merrimack College in North Andover, Mass. Although history was not her field, women's history has been a long-time interest and avocation.

Tentarelli has been a member of the League of Women Voters, a non-partisan political organization, for more than 25 years and president of the state League since 2009. The League is a direct descendant organization of the women's suffrage movement.
