Police Department honors two officers for life-saving response

Department also announces promotion

Chief William Breault and the Dover Police Department honored two officers on Friday, July 8, with a Life Saving Award for quick action in saving a distraught teen. The department also promoted a veteran officer to patrol sergeant.

Life Saving Awards

On Friday, June 10, 2022, the Dover Police Department received calls about a 16-year-old male on the top level of the Orchard Street Parking Garage who was sitting on the edge of the uppermost wall and appeared to be planning to jump.

Multiple officers responded to the area, with Officer Juel Cooper and Detective Molly Martuscello arriving first. As Cooper and Martuscello approached the teen, they believed he was preparing to jump based on his body language and demeanor. They also noticed he was not paying attention to his surroundings and was unaware they were approaching him. The officers took advantage of this, grabbed him by his arms, and pulled him from the ledge. After, when Cooper and Martuscello spoke to him, he stood up and attempted again, but the two officers prevented it.

The swift and composed action of Detective Martuscello and Officer Cooper prevented the teen from jumping from the parking structure and saved his life. He was immediately taken for a mental health evaluation.

The department's police social worker remains in contact with the juvenile's parents to offer assistance and has maintained contact with the family since the incident. He continues to receive treatment and is doing better.

Promotion to Sergeant

Chief Breault also promoted David Collis to Sergeant on July 8. Collis has been with the department for nearly 11 years. During that time, he has held various special assignments, including Field Training Officer and Problem Oriented Policing Officer. He has also been a longtime member of the Strafford County Regional Tactical Operations Unit.

Sergeant Collis has been assigned to the Field Operations Division as a Patrol Sergeant.

City Council endorses state historical marker for conflict between native peoples and Major Waldron

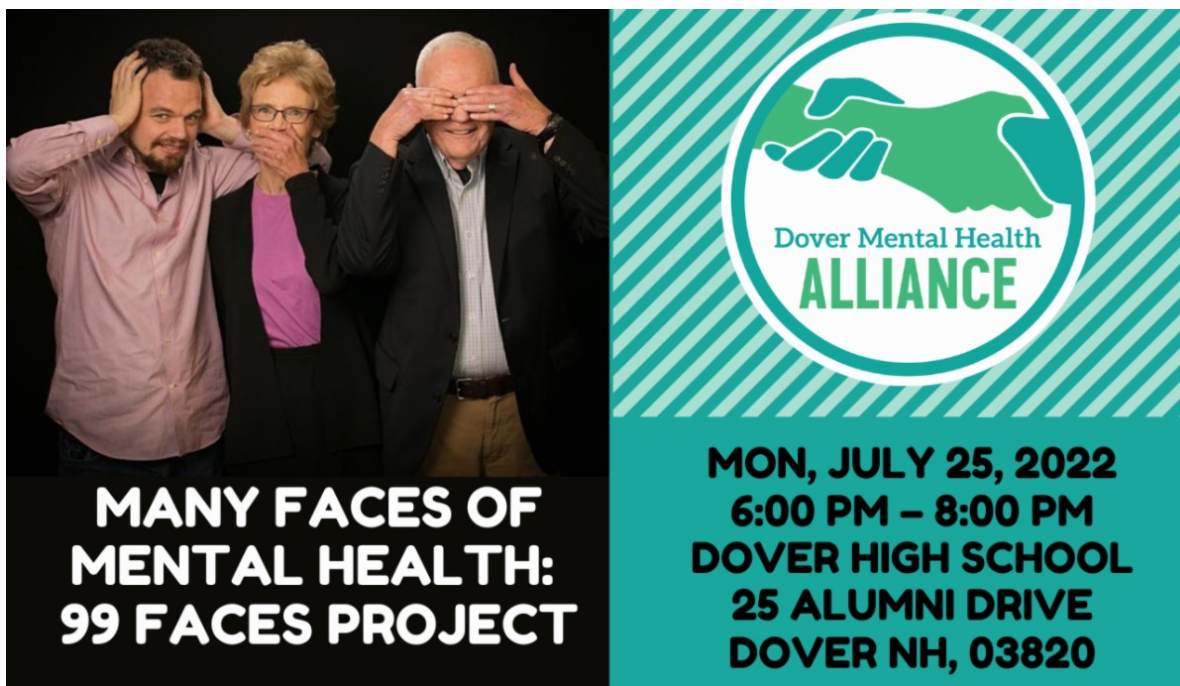

The City Council, by a 6-1 vote, authorized the City Manager to send a letter on behalf of the City Council to the New Hampshire Division of Historical Resources (DHR) in support of installing a historical marker on a downtown section of Central Avenue. The historical marker would tell the broader story of the conflict between members of the Penacook and other indigenous people and Maj. Richard Waldron. Waldron lived on the site of the former county courthouse between First and Second streets in the 1600s.

The resolution, sponsored by at-large councilors Lindsey Williams and Linnea Nemeth, was added to the agenda at the beginning of the July 13 meeting. Williams said the late addition of the resolution was due to the upcoming meeting of the DHR on July 25. The approximate $2,300 cost to have a state historical marker made and installed would be covered by a grant from the Indigenous New Hampshire Collaborative Collective, the resolution states. Dover resident Alix Martin had submitted a preliminary draft proposal to the DHR, which expressed support for such a sign, according to the resolution background materials.

Louis Murphy, 11, said the actions Dover Youth to Youth are taking in their new campaign “hope to make our peers and the community aware of the harmful effects of vaping and the industry’s tactics to attract teens.

The minimum age to buy tobacco in the United States is 21. Federal law raised the age to 21 in 2019, followed by state law in 2020. The minimum age to buy tobacco in Dover has been 21 since 2018, after Dover Youth to Youth members successfully petitioned the City Council to raise the age.

Dover Youth to Youth is an after school drug prevention effort coordinated by the Dover Police Department with the support of Wentworth-Douglass Hospital. For more information, visit www.DoverY2Y.org, or call 603-516-3274.

The following events are from a variety of historical records, sources and texts about the history of Dover.

For more on the history of Dover, visit the Dover Public Library, Locust Street, and the Woodman Museum on Central Avenue. The Public Library also maintains an online collection of historical information, located here.

July 20, 1837 — Died, Deborah Coffin, then the oldest person in town, born in 1738. She was born in a house on Central Street, now Central Avenue, which stood on the high bank dug away to make room for what became "Varney's block," and in which her ancestors lived until the great earthquake in 1755 shook down the chimney. Her great grandfather was Peter Coffin, whose garrison stood on the spot where she was born, and whose house and mills were burned down during the attack on Dover in 1689. Her father had 10 children, the eighth of whom was Deborah. Much of the land on Washington Street, granted originally to Peter Coffin, remained in the family until "Aunt Deborah's" death.

July 21, 1864 — Another call by President Abraham Lincoln for 500,000 men was made on this day. The quota for New Hampshire was 6,502 men, including 149 from Dover. Through a credit system, the city was entitled to reduce the number to about 110 men. At a special meeting of the City Council held July 23, 1864, it was voted to pay the largest bounties for volunteers authorized by a recent act of the Legislature: $100 for one-year men, $200 for two-year men, and $300 for three-year men. The mayor was authorized to take immediate measures for carrying out the vote and raising the necessary men.

July 16, 1905 — Three people drowned in a boating accident on the Dover side of Willand Pond. The victims, two men and a woman, were Eva Thibault, 18, of Gonic; Philian Langlois, 25, of Dover; and Peter Damdoorajian, 35, of Dover. Damdoorajian was originally from Armenia and had no local relatives. Henry Lanouette and Annie Daurdaue, both of Dover, survived after being rescued. According to news accounts, Daurdaue grew concerned about the weight in the boat, became fearful of their situation and stood up, causing the boat to capsize. All five passengers were local mill workers.

July 15, 1939 — On this day, a massive, wind-swept fire destroyed the coal shed of York Coal and Lumber Company of Burnham and Demerritt Court. The fire also gutted six tenement buildings, leaving 90 people homeless. It took firefighters from Dover, Portsmouth and Berwick, Maine, who were joined by 50 volunteers, more than two hours to get the blaze under control. Damage to the coal shed and homes was estimated at $200,000, or about $4.3 million today.

July 16, 2003 — City of Dover crews begin installing new LED traffic lights designed to save money on the city's electric bill. Crews began replacing lights at nine intersections with the light emitting diode signals, known as LED lights. The lights were then expected to save the city about $12,000 annually. Public Service of New Hampshire, now known as Eversource, covered the cost of $75,000 up front, with the city repaying the cost of the project through the monthly electric bill, without the need for bonding. Dover would continue to lead the way with energy-efficient LED lighting. In 2017, the city began retrofitting 1,781 streetlights with LED fixtures manufactured by Dover's Affinity LED Lighting. A grant from Eversource for $100,000 helped fund the project. The projected savings on electricity is about $130,000 a year.

In striving to be a leader in sustainability, the City of Dover encourages all citizens and businesses to reduce their plastic consumption and waste, and to choose more sustainable alternatives. Together, the community can reduce the negative impacts of plastic, as well as join an international effort to reduce pollution and health risks related to plastic.

Want to know how you can help? Resilient Dover is providing weekly tips for Plastic Pollution Reduction Month:

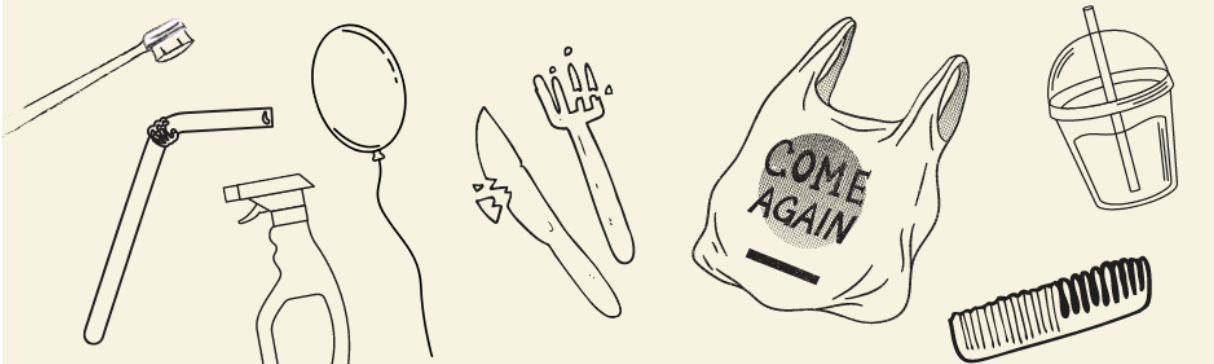

Resilient Dover reminds you that July is Plastic Pollution Reduction Month in the City of Dover

Here's an action item suggested by a group of Dover residents to reduce your plastic use!

Going out to eat? Bring your own "Doggie Bag!"

If you often take home extras from a restaurant, bring reusable containers from home. Carry containers in a cloth grocery bag.

This reduces waste from plastic containers and saves you money on city trash bags!
