School Board approves revised budget that falls under city tax cap

At its meeting this week, the School Board voted unanimously to recommend budget adjustments to its Jan. 6, 2025 adopted budget.

The adjustments would reduce the amount needed to be raised by local property tax and bring it within the City of Dover's tax cap calculation, according to the School Department's Chief Financial Officer Michael Limanni and the memorandum he provided to the School Board at the March 10 meeting. The budget memorandum discusses why there are recommended changes to the revenue and appropriations sides of the budget.

With the adjustments, the School Department budget would total $94,862,186 across all funds, a reduction of $860,149 from the $95,722,335 adopted amount. The School Board now recommends that $61,151,322 be raised by local property taxes for General Fund appropriations, a reduction of $2,370,578 from the $63,521,900 the School Board adopted on Jan. 6.

These recommended adjustments will be included on a forthcoming list of budget adjustments that City Manager J. Michael Joyal, Jr. will provide to the City Council to consider when the Council prepares to adopt its FY2026 budget.

Spaulding Turnpike daytime lane closures continue for next several weeks

The New Hampshire Department of Transportation is performing daytime construction work on the northbound and southbound barrels of the Spaulding Turnpike/Route 16 in Dover between exits 8 and 9.

Weather permitting, work will take place Monday through Thursday from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m., and is expected to be completed in approximately four weeks. Construction work began on March 11, 2025. Crews will install temporary concrete barriers on the northbound and southbound barrels of the Spaulding Turnpike between exits 8 and 9. Motorists should anticipate lane closures. Northbound lane closures will be in place between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m.; southbound lane closures will take place between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Motorists should exercise caution when driving through the construction zone.

The work is preparation of the Dover 41824 project that includes the rehabilitation of the highway bridges that cross the Cochecho River, scheduled to begin this spring. This bridge project will address structural deficiencies and remove the bridges from the state's Red List bridges. Work includes replacing both decks and bridge superstructures, replacing bearings, rehabilitating abutments, minor rehabilitation work to the bridge piers, and minor work at the bridge approaches to tie them into the existing roadway.

Evroks Corporation of Northfield is the general contractor for the $14 million project that is scheduled to be completed in June, 2027.

City Councilors, from left, Debra Hackett, Linnea Nemeth, April Richer, and Lindsey Williams join Mayor Robert Carrier at the podium in Council Chambers at City Hall on Wednesday, March 12, as the mayor proclaims March as Women's History Month and March 8 as International Women's Day.

Mayor, City Council proclaim March as Women's History Month

Mayor Robert Carrier and the Dover City Council formally recognized March as Women's History Month and March 8 as International Women's Day during the council meeting Wednesday night, March 12.

Carrier invited councilors Linnea Nemeth, Lindsey Williams, April Richer and Debra Hackett to join him at the podium as he read two proclamations honoring women's contributions locally and globally.

"Throughout history, women have played integral roles in shaping societies, contributing to every facet of human achievement, and breaking barriers in countless fields," the mayor said, reading from the proclamation. "Women's History Month is a time to recognize and celebrate the extraordinary accomplishments and contributions of women from all walks of life, acknowledging their resilience, leadership, and perseverance in the face of adversity."

The proclamations highlighted both the progress made toward gender equality and the challenges that remain.

"Despite significant advancements, women continue to face challenges such as gender inequality, discrimination, and barriers to opportunity, which must be addressed to ensure a just and equitable society for all," Carrier read from the proclamation.

Councilor At-Large Linnea Nemeth spoke about the city's ongoing commitment to inclusivity.

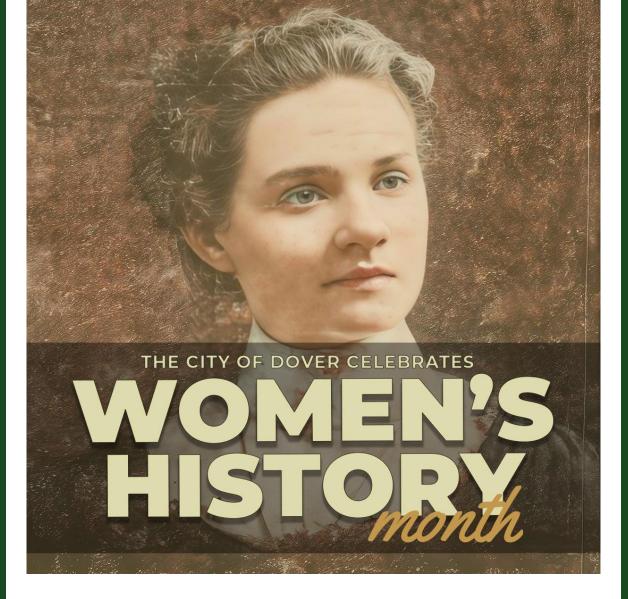

"I just wanted to acknowledge that we continue to push for acknowledgment, recognizing people of all backgrounds and genders in the city," Nemeth said. "And one part that we do is with proclamations and through our work on the Committee for Racial Equity and Inclusion, which continues to recommend making these proclamations."

Nemeth also mentioned plans to further honor women's contributions in Dover.

"We're going to work on some opportunities to further recognize the women in our community that have come before us and will come after us in leadership and important positions, and we're looking at potentially creating our own flag for Women's History Month or Women's Day that might tie into some other historical aspects of the city," she said.

The proclamation for International Women's Day encouraged all Dover citizens "to celebrate, support, and advocate for the rights and achievements of women in our communities and around the world."

The proclamations can be read in their entirety at https://www.dover.nh.gov/government/boards-and-commissions/city-council/proclamations-and-awards/.

Labor leader at 22: Nora O'Connor was a fearless voice for Dover's mill workers

Throughout Women's History Month, the City of Dover proudly celebrates local women whose achievements have helped shape our community. This week, we honor Nora Frances O'Connor Dondero, a fearless labor leader whose courage and determination improved working conditions for hundreds of Dover mill workers.

Born in Dover on Nov. 23, 1879, Nora emerged as a pivotal figure in local labor history when, at just 22 years old, she led the January 1902 strike at the Cocheco Mills. As president of the local Weavers' Union, she organized workers who were frustrated by poor conditions, low wages and limited opportunities.

The Boston Daily Globe captured her spirit with a prominent front-page headline on Jan. 1, 1902: "Pretty and Brave: Girl of 20 Leading the Strike of Dover Weavers." (The paper understated her age by two years.) The article highlighted how she and Treasurer Mary Burke "tell what caused the conflict that threatens to close down the Cocheco Mills," noting workers "were refused an opportunity to present grievances."

The strike began in late December 1901 when mill management refused to address longstanding concerns. Under Nora's leadership, the weavers walked out, bringing production to a halt. The work stoppage quickly gained national attention.

By Jan. 3, 1902, newspapers reported the strike settled, with workers voting to "return to work conditionally." While specific terms weren't disclosed publicly, the resolution was considered "good news for the people of this city." The Dover City Council even passed a resolution expressing sympathy with the striking weavers.

Nora's leadership continued a proud Dover tradition that began in 1828, when mill girls staged the first all-female strike in the United States.

In 1906, she married Francis Dondero, a local plumber. Tragically, her life was cut short when she died on March 29, 1911, at just 31 years old after battling tubercular bronchitis and pneumonia.

Her obituary praised her as "a young woman of the most exemplary character" who earned "the respect and esteem of all who knew her."

Today, as we walk past the Cocheco Mills, we remember Nora O'Connor Dondero's legacy of advocacy, bravery, and dedication to improving the lives of Dover's working-class citizens.

A Comprehensive Plan for the Strafford Region

Strafford Regional Planning Commission seeks public input on future of region

The Strafford Regional Planning Commission (SRPC) has launched a comprehensive survey seeking input from residents and stakeholders to shape the future of the region.

The "Forward Thinking" survey aims to gather diverse perspectives on key issues including infrastructure, transportation, housing affordability, economic development and quality of life across the region. SRPC is looking to hear from a wide range of voices throughout this process, including residents, business owners, and community leaders.

The survey covers critical topics such as land use preferences, housing affordability challenges, transportation priorities and economic development opportunities. Responses will help identify regional priorities and inform future planning decisions.

The Strafford Planning Region includes communities in Strafford County, along with Brookfield and Wakefield in Carroll County, and Northwood, Nottingham, and Newmarket in Rockingham County.

Anyone with a connection to the region is encouraged to participate, whether they live, work, vacation in the area or are considering relocating there.

The survey is available online at surveymonkey.com/r/srpcforward. Hard copies are available at City Hall in Dover.

For more information, visit strafford.org/projects/forward-thinking/.

The following events are from various historical records, sources, and texts about the history of Dover.

For more on the history of Dover, visit the Dover Public Library, Locust Street, and the Woodman Museum on Central Avenue. The Public Library also maintains an online collection of historical information located here.

March 18, 1779 — The committee responsible for handling the estates of absentee loyalists — also known as Tories, who supported the British royal cause during the American Revolution — advertised several items from Gov. John Wentworth's estate for sale in Dover. Among these items were a valuable collection of books and two fine barometers (weather glasses). The New Hampshire Assembly, stating the items would fetch a higher price in Exeter due to what it said was the town's greater activity and frequent visitors, especially during sessions of the General Court, instructed the committee to reschedule the sale there instead. The sale was subsequently set for March 25 in Exeter. Gov. Wentworth's belongings, seized from his residence in Wolfeboro, were considered spoils resulting from his allegiance to the British crown. Historical records suggest that Wentworth was notably the only significant loyalist in Strafford County subjected to such measures.

March 14, 1912 — Col. Daniel Hall is awarded a contract to erect a Soldiers and Sailors Civil War Monument, which he proposed to be presented to the City of Dover and placed on the lawn between the Public Library and high school at the time (now the McConnell Center). The eventual completion of the monument in October 1912 followed several years of community efforts to memorialize those who had served during the Civil War. Col. Hall, a veteran and resident of Summer Street in Dover, donated the funds for the statue. The monument was designed by Lewis J. White of Quincy, Mass., and made with 60 tons of granite from Barre, Vt. According to some reports, a small, copper time capsule of various artifacts was placed behind the second and third stones behind the letter "V" in Dover. The monument was dedicated in October 1912 to great fanfare. In 2012, a wreath ceremony was held to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the monument. The ceremony can be viewed here: https://bit.ly/3FnZadZ.

March 14, 1915 — Dover found itself welcoming a new postmaster, George H. Sherry, thanks to a timely recess appointment by President Woodrow Wilson. Sherry, formerly a state representative for Dover's Ward 2, was officially named to the position after a prolonged period of uncertainty and political maneuvering. His appointment marked a significant development locally, particularly as it arrived precisely two years to the day after Henry F. Hollis' election to the United States Senate, signaling influential support from Sen. Hollis himself. Postmasters during this period were typically presidential appointments, often influenced by local politics, congressional recommendations, and senatorial courtesy. Sherry's predecessor, Ex-Mayor Michael J. White, had initially received support for the Dover postmaster position over a year earlier, recommended by Congressman Reed. However, when the Senate failed to confirm White's appointment and Reed's term expired, it opened a path for Sherry, whose strong political connections and active role in Democratic politics had earned him the backing of Sen. Hollis from the outset. Sherry, upon learning of his appointment, expressed satisfaction and relief, stating he had anticipated such news following Congress's adjournment.

March 19, 1998 — City Councilor Bill Wilson attended a Solid Waste Advisory Commission (now a committee) meeting to advocate for changing the color of Dover's trash bags from orange to green. "I find having a fluorescent orange trash bag to be strange," Wilson said at the meeting. "There's just no need for it. I'm sure the trash men could find the bags if they're green." Wilson said green bags were less intrusive, and would also be representative of Dover's historical colors. The bag color would officially change from orange to green later that year. They have remained green ever since. More recently, Dover's bulky item tags changed from orange to green last year. Wilson died in 1999. Wilson, a 1952 graduate of Dover High School, served two years in the Navy and attended the University of New Hampshire School of Business. He started two companies, Yankee Computer Supply and Modern Office Systems, before beginning his council term in 1998. He had intended to run for a second term, but had to step down because of failing health.
