Proposed changes to zoning aim to boost affordable housing

In early 2018, both the City Council and Planning Board held goal-setting sessions. At these sessions, both groups identified the need for affordable housing as a priority for the community. Planning and Community Development staff have been working over the past few months to review options, and presented amendments to the Planning Board on March 27.

At the meeting, the Planning Board began reviewing the proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance which would allow it to grant increased density on a lot if used for smaller, more affordable homes. These homes would be limited to 1,400 square feet in total living area, which is finished, usable space. The goal is to encourage smaller square footage, which should have a lower price point and be more affordable for buyers.

According to Assistant City Manager Christopher Parker, AICP, who oversees planning activities in Dover, "Staff

With this in mind, staff then had conversations with builders, realtors and market analysts. This review assisted staff in understanding some of the elements that drive the costs of homes.

"Certainly there are many variables, but a large component is the market demand for home size and the higher cost of land in Dover," Parker said.

Planning staff confirmed that density drives the ultimate cost, as the more units that can be built, the more site and land costs can be spread over the total project and reduce individual home costs. Additionally it became clear that a smaller home – 1,400 square feet as opposed to 2,000 – was a desirable size for younger, new homeowners, and those looking to downsize.

With all this in mind, staff drafted an amendment to the City's existing Transfer of Development Rights ordinance to allow builders to purchase density from the City with the requirement that this additional density is used to create smaller, affordable homes. These homes are to be sold, not rented and are limited on their expandability. Staff determined that limiting the size of homes was the best way to create an incentive, but not create bureaucracy for annual reviews or create new enforcement issues.

"We believe in letting the market work in Dover, and through this process, feel that if a developer or builder wants to create smaller more affordable homes we should support that," Parker said. "Dover has a reputation as a family friendly community and we want to encourage that to continue."

The proceeds from the sale would be placed into the Conservation Fund, which will then be used by the Open Lands Committee and Conservation Commission to continue their work to preserve land in Dover.

"This is an added bonus, where we can calculate the cost per acre preserved and then use that fee to sell density," Parker said. "The fee will then continue to fund conservation efforts in Dover.

Planning Board Chair Kirt Schuman is looking forward to the review and consideration of the regulations.

"I think the Planning Board is always supportive of considering innovative land use regulations," Schuman said. "We were the first community in New Hampshire to adopt form-based code for our downtown, and we should be on the forefront of implementing ways to encourage affordable housing as well."

Schuman does caution that these regulations have a ways to go.

"We just saw the amendments for the first time," he said. "We need to be complete in our review and make sure the amendment has public discussion and consideration before we vote on it. There is no need to rush the review."

The language is part of a larger package reviewed by the Planning Board and will be part of a larger public review and consideration process. In Dover, the Planning Board drafts and adopts zoning amendments, after holding public hearings and deliberations. If an amendment is adopted the City Council will then review the amendment after holding its own workshop and public hearings. Amendments typically take three to four months for review and consideration. Parker expects the first public hearing to be at the April 24 Planning Board meeting.

The amendments are available for review in the Planning Department office and online at the Planning Department's web page.

New traffic restrictions begin April 2 for Robbins block demolition

As the demolition of the Robbins block on Washington Street continues, new traffic restrictions begin April 2.

On Monday, April 2, demolition of the portion of the building nearest Washington Street will ramp up. As the walls of certain sections of the structure become relatively unstable during the demolition process, safety clearance zones around the structure are required. The width of the clearance zone is based in part on the height of the structure. To accomodate the work, the following additional traffic restrictions are required:

- Beginning Monday, April 2, travel lanes will be altered on Washington Street, between Chestnut Street and Central Avenue. Washington Street will remain open to two-way traffic, but only a single lane in each direction will be available. This condition will remain in effect around the clock for a period of approximately 2-3 weeks.
- Effective April 2, Locust Street will be closed at the intersection of Washington Street during the demolition of the northeast corner of the property. This restriction will remain in effect around the clock for approximately three to four days. Northbound traffic on Locust Street will be diverted onto Chestnut Street, or through the Belknap municipal metered parking lot. The traffic direction in the Belknap Lot, which is normally one way westerly, will be reversed during this period. Locust Street will reopen as soon as the northeast portion of the structure has been effectively removed.
- Effective the following week, from April 9 to 13, Chestnut Street will be closed on the south side of the Washington Street intersection to accommodate the demolition of the northwest corner. This closure will remain in effect around the clock for about three days. Northbound traffic on Locust Street will be required to remain on Locust Street, except for local traffic bound for Saint Thomas Street or Citizens Bank. Southbound traffic on Chestnut Street will be diverted east or west on Washington Street.
- All pedestrian traffic is restricted on the southerly side of Washington Street, between Chestnut and Locust Streets.

For more information about traffic restrictions, contact the Dover Police Department Traffic Bureau at 742-4646.

Cochecho Waterfront Development Advisory Committee appoints new member, reappoints four more

The Cochecho Waterfront Development Advisory

Committee (CWDAC) recently made some changes to the committee's membership.

CWDAC welcomed newly appointed member Samia Touma. The Dover Housing Authority Commissioners appointed Touma on Jan. 23 to take the place of Carla Goodknight, who resigned after moving out of Dover. Touma has a strong background in architectural design and project management, and earned her master's degree in architecture from Laval University in Quebec City. Dana Lynch, CWDAC Chair commented, "As CWDAC moves forward with the review of project design plans and oversight of the development process, Samia's participation will be invaluable."

Additionally, four current members of CWDAC were reappointed to another three-year term by the Dover Housing Authority Commissioners. The terms of Norm Fracassa, Dane Drasher, Kyle Pimental and Dennis Ciotti now last until March 30, 2021.

Lastly, at their March 20 meeting, CWDAC conducted their annual election and voted for new officers for 2018. Dana Lynch was elected as the Chair of the Committee and Norm Fracassa accepted the position of Vice Chair.

The mission of CWDAC is to provide a vibrant waterfront with public gathering places and access to the water, a place for people to live, meet, relax, encounter nature, conduct business and learn of Dover's past.

"A Search for Justice" performance at Dover Library April 9

The Friends of the Dover Public Library are delighted to present a one-man show, "A Search for Justice", featuring actor Stephen Collins, on Monday evening April 9, 2018 at 7 p.m.

In this performance piece, the audience will hear the words of Abolitionist editor William Lloyd Garrison, and John Brown will tell you why he resorted to violence. Abraham Lincoln will deliver his oration at Gettysburg, and Thomas Hardy and other writers will comment on war and religion.

These historical figures will examine timely issues of social, political, and religious justice. Can justice ever be defined or is it just an abstract concept? What is Truth? How do leaders, both political and religious, use language to motivate or dissuade people? Is violent action ever justified when all else fails? Is there ever be a "just war" or is conflict inherently unjust?

Stephen Collins currently performs eight one-man shows. Receiving rave reviews for over a decade, Mr. Collins's shows deliver not just the poetry and plays, but bring poets and playwrights to life on the stage. His shows also convey an understanding of the impact and the reactions of the characters to their respective times, giving the audience not just a performance, but an experience. This is the first of three shows Stephen Collins will present at the Dover Public Library: in May 2018 he will perform as the poet Walt Whitman and in November as the renowned American artist James McNeill Whistler.

This program is free and open to all.

For more information, please call the Dover Public Library at 603-516-6050.

Applications for "All Veterans" tax credit due by April 15

Veterans who qualify for the newly adopted All Veterans' Tax Credit must complete an application by April 15. The Dover City Council adopted the All Veterans' Tax Credit on Nov. 8, 2017, following a revision to state law that allows municipalities to extend tax credits to all veterans who have served at least 90 days and honorably discharged from the military.

According to the law, "A person shall qualify for the all veterans' tax credit if the person is a resident of this state who served not less than 90 days on active service in the armed forces of the United States and was honorably discharged or an officer honorably separated from service; or the spouse or surviving spouse of such resident, provided that Title 10 training for active duty by a member of a national guard or reserve shall be included as service under this paragraph; provided however that the person is not eligible for and is not receiving a credit under RSA 72:28 or RSA 72:35. "

The All Veterans' Tax Credit will be phased in over a period of three years to match the existing veterans' credit of $500. For veterans who qualify for the All Veterans' Tax Credit, but didn't previously qualify for the existing veterans' credit because they didn't serve during a designated timeframe for a qualifying war or armed conflict, the credit will be phased in over a period of three years.

For 2018 the credit will be $167. The 2019 credit will be $333. The 2020 credit will be for the full amount of $500.

The tax credit will be subtracted each year from the property tax on a qualifying veteran's residential property.

An application for the All Veterans' credit must be made prior to April 15 during the current tax year.

Support the Dover Veterans Park with engraved brick donation

A new City park to honor all veterans is expected to be constructed and open this fall, in time for Veterans Day. The park will be located on the front lawn of the McConnell Center.

To help fund the construction and maintenance of the Dover Veterans Park, park organizers have launched a brick donation campaign. The bricks will be installed on the entrance walkway and engraved with the name, military rank and branch and years of service for individual service members. Bricks can be purchased by anyone wishing to honor a veteran who has served our country. A red 4-inch by 8-inch brick costs $50. A larger 8-inch by 8-inch brick costs $100.

Brick donations can be made online here.

The Dover Veterans Park was first proposed by a committee consisting of Mayor Karen Weston, City Councilor John O'Connor, City Manager J. Michael Joyal, Jr., and Recreation Director Gary Bannon. The City Council subsequently included some funding for the park in the annual Capital Improvements Program. The McConnell Center was chosen as an ideal location because it is near some of the City's memorial monuments and named after Capt. Joseph McConnell, a Dover native, Korean War Veteran, and the first Triple Jet Ace.

The Dover Veterans Park is intended to recognize all veterans.

For more information about brick donations, visit www.dover.nh.gov or call the Dover Recreation Department at 516-6410.
