DOVER CITY COUNCIL

ON THE AGENDA

Coming up at the next City Council meeting

Council set to vote on CIP, public syringe disposal program

The City Council is set to discuss and possibly vote on three resolutions related to the proposed Capital Improvements Program for fiscal years 2024 to 2029 at its Oct. 26 meeting next week.

One resolution is to adopt the six-year CIP document, which outlines the projects the City of Dover plans to complete over the next six years. It's a document that can be modified and does not appropriate funding nor authorize bonding. This resolution requires a simple majority vote to pass.

The second resolution is to authorize non-debt financed projects for FY2024 only. This resolution would appropriate capital reserve funds to finance portions of the CIP, such as the police cruiser and heavy equipment replacement programs. The total amount of proposed non-debt finance projects for FY2024 is $3,088,825. This resolution requires a two-thirds majority vote by the Council to pass.

The third resolution is to authorize bonding for debt-financed

8:30 a.m. to 3:30

projects slated to begin in FY2024, which totals $22,220,000. These include reconstruction projects for Court and Union streets and Fifth and Grove streets. It also provides funding for rehabilitating the Chestnut Street bridge deck and the Portland Avenue retaining wall. This resolution also requires a two-thirds majority vote by the Council to pass.

The CIP was introduced to the City Council and Planning Board on Sept. 21, and each body held public hearings on it at subsequent meetings. The Planning Board, which reviews the CIP to ensure its projects are based upon priorities established in the Master Plan, recommended its adoption at its Oct. 11 meeting. Click here for the complete proposed CIP for FY2024-2029. For a video preview of the proposed CIP and many of the first-year projects, click here.

Pilot public syringe disposal program

The City Council will also consider approving an agreement to allow a pilot public syringe disposal program following a public hearing on the topic.

The program, which would be established and maintained at no cost to the city, is to address ongoing public concerns of improper disposal of syringes in Dover, according to the resolution and background materials.

The proposed pilot program is a partnership of the Strafford County Public Health Network, SOS Recovery Community Organization, Wentworth-Douglass Hospital, and the New Hampshire Harm Reduction Coalition. Members of these organizations presented their proposal to the City Council at its Oct. 12 meeting. Click here to view the presentation.

Other agenda items include the acceptance of a grant for the Dover School District to improve building security and amending the membership and the length of membership for the Library Board of Trustees, both of which have public hearings, and the approval of a purchase and sale agreement between the Dover Business and Industrial Development Authority and APW Properties.

The meeting begins at 7 p.m. in City Hall's Council Chambers and will be televised on Channel 22 and online at <https://dovernh.viebit.com> where it will also be available for on-demand viewing.

After 'putting Dover first' for 35 years, Bill Boulanger retires

Was instrumental in Dover's utility improvements

Bill Boulanger, deputy director of Community Services, who began his career as an entry-level laborer in the sewer division and worked his way up through the ranks to become an expert in drinking water and an innovator in public works, retired today after 35 years of service to the city.

"He always put the city first, sometimes to the detriment of his family," said Community Services Director John Storer, who has relied on Boulanger for his institutional knowledge of the city since Storer became director in 2017.

For years, whenever a water main breaks or a sewer fails, Boulanger was at the scene, regardless of the weather or time of day. "A lot of times I wasn't home for Christmas, wasn't home for birthdays," Boulanger said. "When they call, you had to go."

Water breaks are particularly common during long spells of frigid weather when the frost line deepens. Working in those temperatures are the events that stay with him and others working with him.

"I can remember one stretch – it was like every year we were working Christmas Day or Christmas Eve for water breaks or other issues," he said, crediting the support of his wife and children for his career and success. "I couldn't do what I do without her."

Boulanger came to the city for steady work and a career after working in construction at a time when it was common for workers to get laid off during the winter months. At $2.85 an hour, Boulanger would spend a significant amount of time early in his career in the sewer mains, installing them or cleaning up debris and waste solids before the city acquired a vacuum truck. "It was my job, so I did it," he said, noting that with the help of others, he cleaned most of the sewer lines in the city. "It didn't bother me too much."

About four years into the job, the city upgraded and got its first vacuum truck, and he could clean the debris and solids from above ground. "I thought I was in glory land," he said of the upgrade.

After about 10 years into his career, the city merged the water and sewer divisions under one unit. The supervising foreman left, and Boulanger was offered the job. "Back then, I didn't have a clue about the water," he said, praising his mentors who guided his journey, like Richard "Dicky" Gadbois, who retired in 2001. "From there, I grew, grew and grew."

He became superintendent of utilities, then superintendent of public works and utilities, and then became deputy director.

Boulanger isn't one for reading novels or non-fiction books. Instead, he prefers trade journals, manuals and other technical writing, where he picked up on new trends in the industry, such as the directional flushing of the water pipes, which cleans the system by scouring the lines that remove sediments and stale water from the system.

He read up on it, saw some training and then brought it to Dover. "That's something I'm proud I implemented and that we still do to this day," he said.

With the help of others in Community Services and Information Technology, Boulanger conducted an assessment of utilities within the city and transferred his institutional knowledge of the unground utilities into a digital GIS asset management program, which has received two awards for its innovative work.

"I've done an assessment of all the water mains in Dover, so I know where they are and what condition they are in," he said. "We have a classification on them so we know which ones are the worst ones and which ones should be replaced now, instead of just shooting dark and word of mouth."

Now the city has a database for future crews to work from. "That was a nice achievement," he said. "I was glad to have that done."

Even with crew utilizing digital maps in the field, Boulanger's knowledge of the system is unsurpassed.

"We can have a water main break, and people are looking at digital maps [for gate valve locations], and Bill can call in on the radio and say, 'You have to go under Ms. Jones' rose garden, with the red roses, not the white roses, because that's the valve you have to shut off,'" Storer said. "It's amazing the knowledge that he has."

Infrastructure calamities

Water main breaks can be stressful, especially when the location of the break is unknown.

"The one that got me the worse was the one million gallon a day leak in the city that we finally found in the Pacific Mills," Boulanger recalled.

They knew they had a significant leak, but its location remained a mystery for more than a year. In addition to city crews, the city brought in professional leak hunters but still could not find it. They got a lucky break when renovation work at the mills required the water to be shut off.

"When we shut the water main down, you could hear the leak going through the gate really bad. So we knew it was in there, so it was all hands on deck," Boulanger said. After jackhammering the floor, the water main was capped, and the leak finally stopped. "I was glad we found it. We were checking the city all over to find that leak."

Another mystery million-gallon leak occurred on a rainy Christmas Day in 2020. Boulanger utilized the water system itself to isolate the area of the leak by shutting off sectors of the city at the time. Thankfully, the leak was located that night.

Boulanger's knowledge of the system and his experience working in the field has helped engineers design projects that are easier to maintain with an eye to the future.

"Not just your future, but the guy coming after you," he'd tell his colleagues. "Try to think about that."

Awards and recognition

Boulanger received numerous awards over the years.

For his work on improving the Berry Brook watershed, including his design work on what became known as the "Boulangenerator," a catch basin that treats stormwater runoff efficiently, Boulanger received the Environmental Protection Agency's Region 1 Environmental Merit Award in 2016. He also received an award from the New England Stormwater Collaborative for his work at Berry Brook.

He received the New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services Salt Shaker Award for helping to reduce the city's salt use by improving efficiencies.

In 2001, Boulanger was named Employee of the Year for the City of Dover.

He also served a term as president of the New Hampshire Water Works Association.

Boulanger, who turns 65 in December, was one of 15 kids and grew up working on the Boulanger Dairy Farm, now New Hampshire Fish and Game land, at the end of Rabbit Road on Old Garrison Road. His farm work would begin before school and continue afterward until his family sold the farm and moved to Somersworth when he was mid-way through high school.

He returned to Dover, but ended up moving back to Somersworth after beginning his career in Dover so he could serve on Somersworth's Planning and other public boards. Boulanger was also appointed to the Somersworth City Council to fill vacancies on occasion.

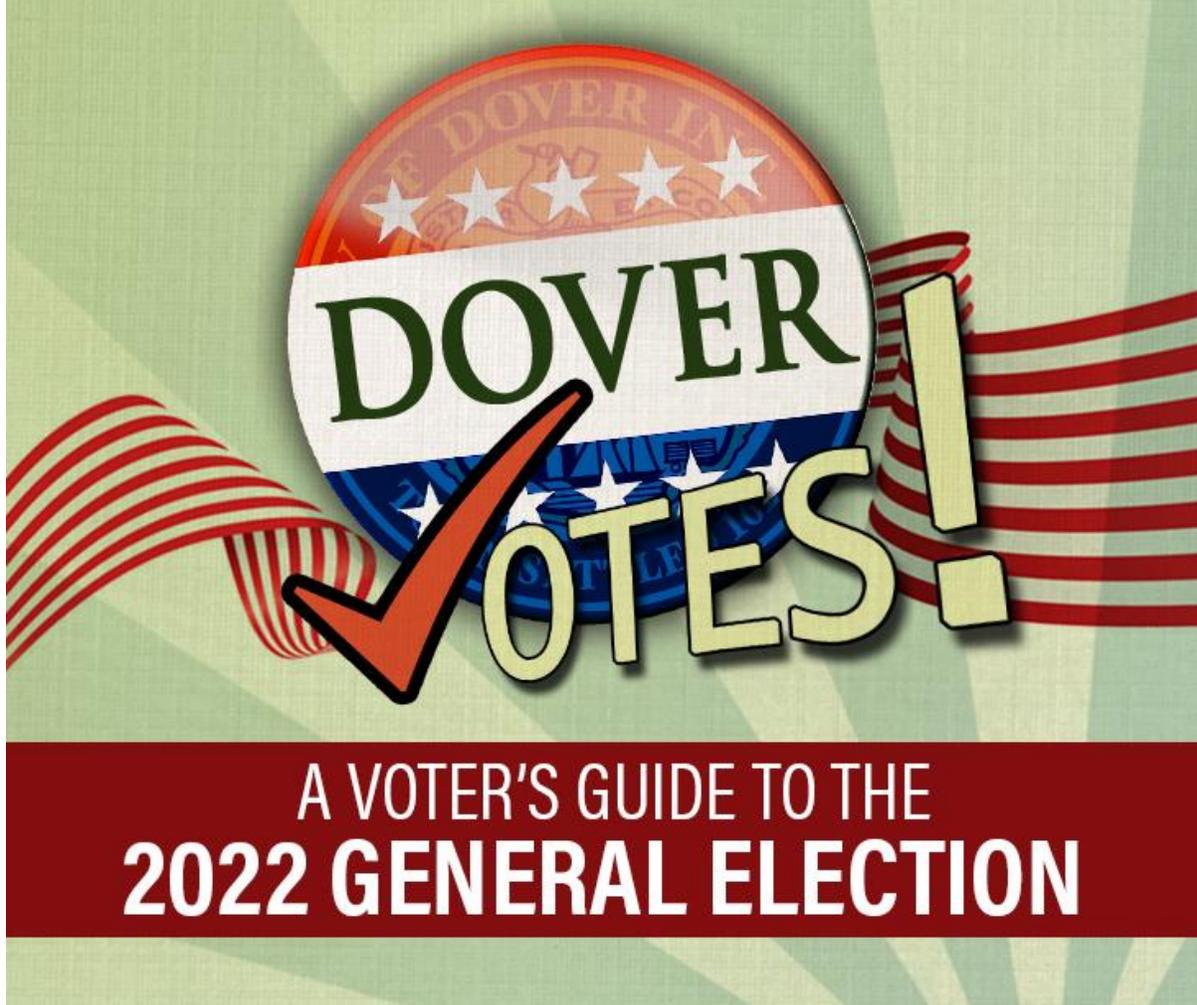

Retirement?

Boulanger and his wife will soon journey across the country to visit family and friends before returning to Somersworth. He isn't too sure what the future will hold for him. He suspects he will return and work for the city part-time on a contract basis to help the engineering team review upcoming projects.

Boulanger will be missed by his colleagues, who enjoy his laughter, sense of humor, and dedication to the job.

"It's hard to envision a day without having him around," Storer said. "Whenever an emergency pops up, everyone says, 'What would Bill do?'"

State General Election is Nov. 8

The state general election will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 8, 2022, and polls in Dover will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Absentee ballots are available to voters who cannot make it to the polls that day.

The election ballot includes races for federal, state and county offices, including Governor, U.S. Senator, Representative in Congress, Executive Councilor, State Senator, State Representative, Sheriff, County Attorney, County Treasurer, Register of Deeds, Register of Probate and County Commissioners. The ballot also includes two constitutional questions.

Information about the election, including sample ballots, can be found on the City of Dover's 2022 General Election page or the New Hampshire Secretary of State's elections page. In addition, City Clerk Susan Mistretta appeared on this week's Dover Download podcast to discuss the upcoming election, and what voters should know. The podcast can be heard here or wherever you get your podcasts.

The session will be held in the City Clerk's Office at City Hall.

This is the last time to register to vote before the election. Voters may register to vote at their polling location on Election Day. To vote, you must be a City of Dover resident 18 years of age or older on the day of the election and a United States citizen. There is no minimum time required to have lived in Dover before registering. This ward redistricting affected about 1,500 voting households in Dover, informed by mail from City Clerk Susan Mistretta earlier this year.

Voters whose wards have changed will vote in different polling locations than their previous ward. Residents may check which ward they live in utilizing the interactive ward map.

Design engineers seek additional input, clarification for Fifth and Grove reconstruction project

Follow-up survey includes questions on tree selection, travel preferences

City of Dover engineers seeks additional feedback from the public through an online follow-up survey on the Fifth and Grove Reconstruction Project currently under design.

The objective of the follow-up survey is to clarify resident preferences related to the proposed roadway improvements within the project area based on feedback from the initial survey in August. Respondents to the previous survey indicated the importance of tree selection, and many requested the city consider more native tree options, which are included in the follow-up survey. There are also clarifying questions regarding travel preferences and on-street parking.

The survey is available at <https://polco.us/sfrddd>. Completing the survey requires an email address and zip code. The deadline to complete the survey has been extended to 11:59 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 26, 2022.

Fifth Street and a section of Grove Street are targeted for a reconstruction project to create a consistent roadway layout, provide sidewalks on both sides of the street, and define parking areas. It also includes reconstructing Fifth Street, restoring Grove Street, and replacing the water main and storm drainage. COAST Bus to resume afternoon services on bus routes 1 and 33

The region's public transit system will resume nearly all weekday afternoon services on bus Routes 1 and 33 beginning on Monday, Oct. 24. COAST has run reduced afternoon services on these routes since late-May because of a shortage of bus operators.

"At this point we have added enough bus operators to be able to add a new driver shift and resume these runs, starting next Monday," said Rad Nichols, COAST Executive Director. "Unexpected departures of staff can of course affect these plans," he added.

Specific bus runs that are resuming, by route, are as follows:

- Route 1 – 2:30 p.m. northbound, 2:55 p.m. southbound, 4:30 p.m. northbound, 4:55 p.m. southbound, 6:30 p.m. northbound, and 6:55 p.m. southbound
- Route 33 – 1:30 p.m. outbound, 1:59 p.m. inbound, 3:30 p.m. outbound, 3:59 p.m. inbound, 5:30 p.m. outbound, 5:59 p.m. inbound, 7:30 p.m. outbound, and 7:44 p.m. inbound. The 4:30 p.m. outbound and 4:59 p.m. inbound runs will be suspended for now.

An adjustment will also be made to the Route 34 schedule because of the resumed services on Routes 1 and 33. The 7:57 p.m. Route 34 outbound run will resume once again.

COAST, like many public transit systems across the country, has struggled to hire enough staff to maintain their full bus schedules.

When the COAST board of directors approved the FY23 operating budget, increases in operator pay and other potential enhancements to retain current and attract new staff were considered. "One of our primary goals was to address the issues we are having with attracting new bus operators to our staff," stated Michael Williams, Director of Operations. Williams continued, "in mid-November we will be able to announce exciting improvements in both pay and the costs of benefits that will take effect in January 2023."

For information on COAST career opportunities, please visit www.coastbus.org/careers. COAST currently has up to five full time CDL operator openings and four part time opportunities for CDL operators.

The Cooperative Alliance for Seacoast Transportation (COAST) has provided public transit service to the Seacoast New Hampshire region since 1982. COAST is a public, non-profit transit system that relies primarily on federal and local government support to operate. COAST is governed by a board of directors representing the communities served, two regional planning commissions, and many local and state agencies.

Oct. 26, 1786 — At a town meeting, Dover citizens were asked to vote on a plan to create and distribute paper currency, as had been recently ordered by the General Court. Of those citizens in attendance, 17 voted to accept the plan as sent out, two voted against any paper currency, and one voted to commit 100,000 pounds to redeem public securities at 20 shillings on the pound, and that the money could be used for all payments.

Oct. 25, 1838 — A meeting was held this day to secure the construction of the Boston & Maine Railroad line from Exeter to Dover, instead of Exeter to Portsmouth.

Oct. 22, 1840 — A warehouse near Young's Tannery on the Landing burned down, and a large quantity of merchandise was destroyed.

Oct. 25, 1951 — At Strafford County Superior Court in Dover on this day, a judge dismissed a case in which the City of Rochester and Town of Farmington had sued the Boston and Maine Railroad to recoup the costs of fighting a massive fire that the two communities maintained was started by sparks from a B&M freight engine in October of 1947. The fire had burned for eight days, consuming 7,500 acres and 35 homes. The case was dismissed by the judge after a jury could not reach a verdict after 27 hours.

Oct. 22, 2001 — Four mayoral candidates squared off on this day in the first debate leading up to the 2001 Municipal Election. The candidates -- Victor Bourre, Kathi Derby, Alex Nossiff, and Peter Schmidt -- were asked questions by Malcolm McNeill, moderator of the Greater Dover Chamber of Commerce event. Nossiff would be elected mayor in November of that year.

Woodman Museum's 'Voices from the Cemetery' is this weekend

Meet noted, nefarious, or notorious Dover citizens who will come to life beside their headstones, regaling visitors with tales of mirth, woe, and amazement. Among the residents lifting their voices in the cemetery will be several strong women who accomplished remarkable feats, some entrepreneurial businessmen, two tragic souls, and a few intrepid early colonial settlers.

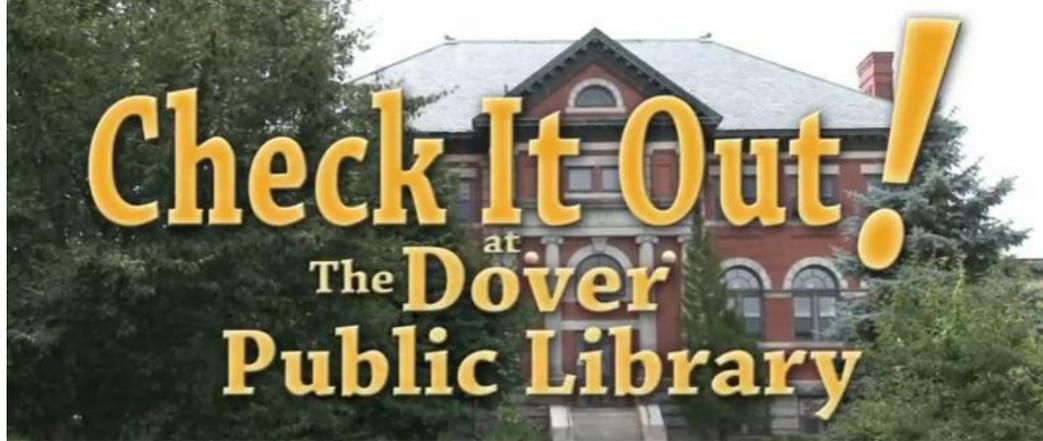

The Woodman Museum "Voices from the Cemetery" takes place on Saturday, Oct. 22 and Sunday, Oct. 23. Guided tours are approximately 40 minutes long and will leave from Pine Hill's Ricker Chapel every 30 minutes. Tours begin at 10 a.m. each day and the last tour departs at 3:30 p.m.

Tickets are on sale at the Woodman Museum, online at www.woodmanmuseum.org, or at the event. All proceeds benefit the non-profit Woodman Museum.

History of the USS Albacore at Dover Public Library

Nestled away off the highway in Portsmouth is 204 feet of steel that changed Naval history forever.

Join the Dover Public Library on Wednesday, Nov. 9 at 6:30 p.m. for an early Veteran's Day program exploring the history of the USS Albacore and those who served on it. The in-person program will be presented by Patti Violette, executive director of the USS Albacore Museum.

The USS Albacore was designed and maintained by the craftsmen of the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard and holds the distinction of being the first boat built specifically to operate underwater. Prior to its creation, submarines served as surface vessels that could submerge. It also was the first designed with the teardrop-shaped hull, which is now the standard for today's submarines.

Commissioned in 1953, the USS Albacore served as the Navy's "floating laboratory", testing equipment, control systems, and innovative theories, until 1972. It wasn't until May of 1985 when the submarine made its way back home to Portsmouth.

Violette is the USS Albacore Museum's first woman director and fourth in its history. She has over 20 years of experience in the museum industry including Old Fort Western in Augusta, the Shirley-Eustis House in Roxbury and the Mount Kearsarge Indian Museum in Warner. She has a master's in education from Thomas College and an undergraduate degree in history from the University of Southern Maine in Portland.

The program is free and open to the public. For more information, visit the library's website at library.dover.nh.gov or call (603) 516-6050.

Children's Memory Garden dedicated

Wentworth-Douglass Hospital hosted a remembrance and dedication ceremony last Saturday, Oct. 15, at the Children's Memory Garden at Pine Hill Cemetery, to honor children who have died during pregnancy or as infants. The ceremony included the creation of luminary bags in honor of a lost child, which was followed by a lighting ceremony, pictured above. Mayor Robert Carrier, pictured below, attended the event and read a proclamation honoring the families who have endured the loss of a child. The new Children's Memory Garden at Pine Hill Cemetery was also made possible by Jasper's Heart, a non-profit organization that supports those who have experienced the loss of an unborn, stillborn or soon-after birth child.

The City of Dover may reject incomplete or late applications.

To be eligible for funding, applicants must meet specific requirements. They include but are not limited to:

- Submission of a complete and timely application.
- Consistent with the FY2022-25 Consolidated Plan.
- Meet one of the following HUD national objectives:

For more information about project eligibility or to learn more about Dover's Community Development Block Grant program, visit www.dover.nh.gov/government/city-operations/planning/community-development/.

The City of Dover has been a CDBG entitlement community for over 25 years. The HUD program provides annual grants on a formula basis to entitled cities and counties to develop viable urban communities by providing decent housing and a suitable living environment, and by expanding economic opportunities, principally for low- and moderate-income people. HUD awards grants to entitlement community grantees to carry out a wide range of community development activities directed toward revitalizing neighborhoods, economic development, and providing improved community facilities and services. Entitlement communities develop their own programs and funding priorities. The entitlement grant is expected to be available in the summer or fall of 2023. The amount to be received by the City of Dover has yet to be determined by Congress.

Share that perfect Christmas Tree with the entire Dover community

Each year, a new Christmas tree is raised at Henry Law Park, signaling the beginning of the winter holiday season in Dover. The City of Dover is seeking this season's tree, and is asking area residents to consider donating the perfect candidate, already growing in your backyard.

The ideal Christmas tree for Henry Law Park is an evergreen, preferably a White Spruce or Balsam Fir, between 25 and 35 feet tall, and growing evenly on all sides.

Have a tree that fits the description? Would you like to share it with the entire community this holiday season? Contact Recreation Director Gary Bannon, who will evaluate the tree. If it's the perfect tree for the park, the City will arrange to cut down the tree and relocate it to Henry Law Park by the end of November.

For more information, or to volunteer your perfect Christmas tree, contact Recreation Director Gary Bannon at 516-6401 or g.bannon@dover.nh.gov.
